

SPOTLIGHT ON IDAHO AUTHORS

Travel with award-winning transition educator Mike Kelly through the ups and downs and ins and outs of his work within the disabilities field. Along the journey, meeting interesting kids with disabilities, famous professional athletes and everyday folk who make a difference—and discover the many abilities kids with disabilities actually have.

These thought-provoking and heartwarming stories are sure to entertain and educate, as well as dispel societal stereotypes. A good read for parents of children with disabilities, special educators and administrators, individuals with disabilities, workers in the disabilities field, and corporate diversity and inclusion professionals.
